another turtle attack and how to end up in the same position again so that seems to be the point of this so turtle already near hook seatbelt and now he knows that they can't pull me there I have my angle so he tries to jump over maybe I'm leaning there also who cares so go I guess I guess if I land like this that's the goal so we do it we do it again and now because he already starts like off my back yeah so that's the key I'm also controlling the leg so I control kind of the role and you know the answer ready so but kind of we have to show it so look so here they roll and we're back here so you already know I might be a little bit sloppy when I do those things but you know what what to do I don't feel you know danger maybe here there some little bit sloppy but that's the whole point so and you can if the momentum is a little bit less powerful you can I guess also stop while your back is on towards the mat and then if he continues with the momentum then you end up in your position so pretty much the same thing we covered but from turtle it happens again so they have to learn how to take the back both sides jab and cross and threaten with those things and so my job is to like manage that so again all we have a saying like all roads lead to Rome I think in English also I've heard it used in Estonia we have the same who knows why and so all attacks the point is that all attacks that it does will lead to that position wherever I go I will find my trenches and it's actually not that hard to find that trench and then you want to escape fast when I escape slow you want to stay there that's the decision you make on depends on the rules you fight under or you know in circumstances in MMA fight whatever so keep keep those things in mind but yeah from turtle and already with both hooks the situation is already like super worse so
