

Metadata: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NYGgM83\_JWQ

Okay guys, Bernardo Ferreira here, and guys, today I'm making this video to explain to you why I always say huge honor for me here on my channel. So guys, when I built my YouTube channel three years ago, if I'm not wrong, I would travel for seminars and visit schools and that kind of stuff, and I would always ask someone to teach me something, and then I would always feel honored to learn from that person. So it was something that I started saying that, for example, I would go to one jiu-jitsu school, teach a seminar, and in the end I would ask the guy to teach one technique to my YouTube channel, and it was an honor for me to learn from that person, as it always is, you know, like I'm a forever student in jiu-jitsu, I'm black belt, three stripes, but I'm always learning, and I do feel honored when someone is teaching me something, you know, like I always try to be the most respectful with everybody, so I started saying like, hey guys, I'm here with this person, it's a huge honor for me, and I understand that saying huge honor for me is a little wrong in English, but English is my second language, and I didn't know about it, and now I have some news here for you, I'm gonna keep saying huge honor for me, and the reason why is like, I think like in this world of trash talking that we are living, when I see someone making a joke to me about that, I feel honored, because if that's the type of talking that people are doing about Bernardo, I really hope it continues, because I enjoy that, it's something that I'm showing respect to someone, so I enjoy that, and I also have nothing against who does trash talking, I think like even for the sport, that can be even good, because it creates a ton of engagement, and this and that, but anyways, I'm gonna keep saying huge honor for me, I hope you guys keep enjoying it, and I'm gonna keep making a ton of videos for you guys as well, so thank you. Take care.